Update - Hurricane Helene, Project Delivery, & Funding

Daniel Johnson's service as Secretary of Transportation began on Oct. 1, 2025. Appointed to the office by Governor Josh Stein, Johnson builds on his eight years of experience serving in senior executive roles at the N.C. Department of Transportation, including most recently as deputy secretary and general counsel.

Johnson's service with the Department of Transportation continues a career that has largely been devoted to public service. Following his graduation from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, he accepted a commission in the U. S. Navy and served as a surface warfare officer on the USS Blue Ridge.

Upon completion of his military service, Johnson worked for U.S. Sen. Max Cleland, of Georgia, where he focused on issues related to military affairs and veterans. Following a return to UNC-Chapel Hill to attend law school, Johnson served as an assistant district attorney in Wake County before going into private practice.

During his last deployment to Afghanistan, Jones' team rendered safe and destroyed nearly 80 improvised explosive devices (IEDs) along with thousands of pounds of other unknown bulk explosives. In August 2010 Jones was struck by an IED. He suffered several life-threatening injuries including the loss of both legs above the knee.

After losing his childhood best friend to PTSD-related suicide in 2012, Jones decided to make veterans' issues a key part of his professional work.

DEFINING LUXURY FOR OVER 100 YEARS NEARLY A CENTURY OF ELEGANCE

Cavalier Resort An icon of the Mid-Atlantic A Rich Legacy of Hospitality

Now welcoming guests for nearly a century, The Historic Cavalier Hotel and Beach Club boasts a fascinating guest list that includes the names of 10 U.S. Presidents and noted luminaries from F. Scott Fitzgerald to Elizabeth Taylor. Restored to its original grandeur, the hotel is still telling its stories today while inviting guests to experience the same timeless architecture, lush gardens, and impeccable service that has delighted travelers since 1927.

The Cavalier Hotel has offered guests a unique and memorable vacation experience since the very beginning. When the hotel opened in 1927, the first guests were awed by world-class amenities and extravagances almost unheard of at the time, from private bathrooms in every guest room to an indoor swimming pool filled with cool, fresh ocean water. Guest rooms included bathtubs with an extra handle to draw a seawater bath and sinks with an ice water spigot that brought water down from a large wooden ice-filled tub on the hotel roof. The hotel included space for a doctor, a photographer and a stockbroker, with live ticker tape from the New York Stock Exchange. In the lower lobby, guests could shop without ever leaving the hotel – another rarity at the time – with boutiques, shops, clothing retailers, an ice cream parlor and a hair salon. A broadcast center for radio station WSEA even delivered the Norfolk mayor's congratulatory statement to Charles Lindbergh during his legendary flight from New York to Paris.

The opulence came to a halt when the hotel was surrendered to Uncle Sam during World War II. In October of 1942, the U.S. Navy became a resident and turned the hotel into a site for radar training. It is said that the hotel grounds were so cramped that sailors used the stables as living quarters. In 1973, the sister hotel to The Cavalier opened on the oceanfront and the original "Cavalier on the Hill" was closed. The Cavalier Oceanfront was constructed to be 11 stories overlooking the Atlantic Ocean but was not a replacement for the original Cavalier, which reopened in 1976.

The painstaking remodel brought new life to many of the original neoclassical features that made The Cavalier a visual oceanfront icon. Exterior details – such as the pedestals and finials, the iconic-style pilasters and the portico with classical columns – were meticulously and respectfully restored. The hotel underwent a massive, award-winning $81 million renovation, reopening in 2018 to restore its 1920s grandeur, including its original lobby and grand staircase.

A Pete Dye design

“The design philosophy of Dye Designs accommodates a wide variety of golfers with varying levels of ability. The job of the designer is to provide a challenge to advanced players without creating so much frustration that beginners leave the game of golf or migrate to a less difficult course. Dye Designs is aware of this problem and uses several techniques to overcome the situation. Particular attention must be paid to these different abilities, along with an equal concern for maintenance and the environment. Each Dye golf course is custom designed based on the requirements of the owner. In some cases, owners want to create the most difficult course possible. However, the greatest percentage of owners want a less difficult course that is enjoyable for all levels of players. Following are the basic elements of a Dye design golf course that will help create a course that meets the needs of nearly every golf course owner.”
